

A Winter Funeral

The church was cold in a sullen light as we said goodbye to Ron.
Over the bier a moth took flight, though the church was cold. In the sullen light it fluttered down as a blessing might, then gained the porch and was gone.
And the church was gold in a sudden light
as we said goodbye to Ron.

