

Passing through the Woods

It's hard to see my way because
the leaves have fallen. Now they're drifting where a path once was — it's hard to see my way. Because the light is brief I dare not pause;
I'll find the track somehow.
It's hard to see my way because
the leaves have fallen now.